NOC Conversion Tables

These conversion tables, prepared by the Occupational and Career Information Branch, Employment and Immigration Commission, have been designed to aid users in changing over from the Canadian Classification and Dictionary of Occupations (CCDO) to the new National Occupational Classification (NOC).

Two conversion tables have been prepared to indicate the relationship between these two classification systems. The CCDO to NOC table provides a one-to-one mapping illustrating where each CCDO code has been classified in the NOC. This table is arranged in four columns. The first two columns contain the main CCDO occupational title and corresponding seven-digit code in CCDO numerical code sequence. The third and fourth columns contain the NOC unit group code and unit group title.

The second table uses the same data but is arranged in NOC numerical code sequence. For each NOC unit group, the corresponding CCDO codes and main occupational titles are listed.

In some cases, a seven-digit CCDO code may have alternate occupational titles within that code linked to more than one NOC unit group. Users of these tables should take note that in such cases, only the most significant linkage is shown.

It should also be noted that Statistics Canada will be providing a conversion table based on the four-digit (unit group) level of the Standard Occupational Classification (SOC). The SOC is closely related to the CCDO four-digit (unit group) structure.
